On their way to immortality (left to right):
Sergey Brin, Jeff Bezos and Mark Zuckerberg

Aging research breakthroughs over the past few years have spurred billionaires like Amazon founder Jeff Bezos and Facebook creator Mark Zuckerberg to use their fortunes to help figure out how to extend human lifespans. Their investments are driving the rapid development of technologies related to removing dysfunctional cells that contribute to aging — senescent cells — and cellular rejuvenation.

“Brin gave the crowd a briskly ambiguous nod: Yes, I was singled out for death; no, I’m not actually planning to die.”
